

Summary Group Reflection

What went well:

Our consistency in producing the work was incredibly productive. We were always up to date with our deadlines due to creating weekly goals and having more meetings in comparison to our last assignment. Communication sharing members thoughts and ideas more often motivated everyone to stay persistent in their workflow and work efficiently.

What could be improved:

It seems that we all agree that we do not have much to improve on. We could improve on the quality of our work although we feel that we have always aimed to put our work up to high standards as much as possible. We have also taken into account the feedback from our last assignment that we completed together so we hopefully have improved on those areas.

At least one thing that was surprising:

We managed to meet the majority of our deadlines throughout the project even though we all had multiple ongoing assignments/exams in our other subjects which was surprising. At the beginning of the assignment, we discussed the deadlines of other assignments and scheduled this assignment's milestones accordingly.

At least one thing that you have learned about groups:

Enhancing the relationships and trust between team members increases the communication input and motivation within the team. In result to this, it increments higher chances of more refined and developed work from decisions and ideas that everyone has come to an agreement with.

Remember to include in your section on Tools how well you think your Git log of activity reflects your group's work on this assignment:

Due to some technical difficulties and confusion on how to use the site, our Github repository was set up late. Because of this, the dates and times of our uploads didn't accurately reflect our actual progress. We found it most convenient to collaborate on a google document rather than pushing and pulling files on the repository so this document reflects our individual effort the best.
